The Iron Mountain Company will put a diamond drill at work on some land belonging to the company at Cedar Grove this county, this week. The company has optioned several thousand acres of land in the vicinity, and it is said intend to thoroughly prospect the country.

THE REGISTER last week stated that the surveyors for the long distance telephone were encamped across Knob Creek. This was an error. The surveying party is in the employ of the railroad, endeavoring to select a route through the Valley that will avoid the Hogan mountain grades.

The REGISTER was honored with a call last Thursday from Mrs. H. H. Stiers of Walnut Ridge, Arkansas, and her daughter, Miss Jennie—now Mrs. Stuart, of Ft. Worth, Texas. Mrs. Stiers many years ago made her home in the Valley and afterwards at Annapolis, this county, and is well remembered by many of our people.

Hon. Champ Clark, Missouri's famous Congressman, will address the voters of Iron county at Annapolis on the 9th or 10th of October—the date will be definitely fixed in a few days. It is intended to make the meeting a monster one. Hon. A. M. Dockery, the next Governor of Missouri, will deliver speeches at Bellevue and Ironton the latter part of October. Particulars later.

St. Vaughn, Ironton's up-to-date and progressive tinsmith, has taken to inform the public that he has taken the agency for Ozono, the hair strengthener and hair grower. He recommends it very highly and says it is the only honest remedy on the market. Ozono causes the hair to grow long and straight, soft and fine, and as beautiful as an April morning. Price, fifty cents a bottle.

Three or four boys in this town have been throwing rocks at night at strangers as they pass along the street. The boys had better behave; their names are all known and it required some pleading on the part of their friends to keep them from being prosecuted. The practice is a contemptible and cowardly one, and if they repeat the offense, these boys will very likely find themselves behind jail doors.

Messrs. Thos. Newman and Fred Kindell are now sojourning in Paris, seeing the exposition sights. They will return to England this week, whence they will sail for home on the 18th. The editor is in receipt of a souvenir card, showing the Eiffel Tower, from Mr. Fred Kindell. He writes: "From the top of the tower I send this. The exposition is too grand to describe, Paris you ought to see. The city is grand, beautiful—surpasses any I have seen yet. The people below look like dolls walking about."

Jeff Wilson traded a horse for a mule last Saturday and got $4 boot money. That evening Wilson proceeded to tank up on his boot money. Toward midnight he was pretty well under the "influence" when it occurred to him, that he'd never "tried" the mule, yet to see if he would work. So he hitched up the mule and started out in town. In the wagon he had a number of cow bells and as he sped along the street, residents of the southern end of town were treated to a charivari. Then the City Marshall happened along and took Wilson in charge. Monday the defendant pleaded guilty before the Mayor and was fined $1 and cost.

A Missouri poet, whose love for the Hlad is equalled only by his praise for Missouri wrote the following: "Missouri, heaven bless her from Nodoway to Pike; from Stone to Clark and Atchison and all the rest alike. She has vineyards in the Ozarks and the blue grass on the Grand, while the winding, crooked Muddy runs through the richest land. She has the tallest woman the world has ever met, and the best long green 'terbacker' that was ever in the sweat. On the hills the cows are grazing but no country can surpass, and the fattest hog are grunting in the meadow and the mast. The thrasher's now a-hummin' and the hay up in the stack, while the thrifty hen is cacklin' and the ducks are going 'quack.' No country can surpass her —she's the grandest of 'em all; we'll have corn and pumpkins and fodder in the fall."

Last winter J. J. Gilpin of Butler County spent thirty days in jail here for violating Uncle Sam's revenue laws. On being released here he was taken in charge by the sheriff of Independence County, Arkansas, where there was an indictment against him for selling mortgaged property. Some way or other, though, he beat the case and was given his liberty. Shortly afterwards he was arrested again on the charge of assault with intent to kill. He got out of that trouble, too, but is in the toils once more. This time he is probably "up against it." The following is taken from the last issue of the Poplar Bluff Citizen: "Wm. H. Osmer, of St. Louis, deputy United States marshal, and Charles Flanagan of this city journeyed to Batesville yesterday and arrested one J. J. Gilpin on a charge of making, having in possession and passing counterfeit money. Gilpin was arraigned before United States Commissioner O'Bryan last night, and was taken to St. Louis to await the action of the United States grand jury. Gilpin lives on the Palmer road, near Bellevue, and has been circulating bogus dimes for some time, it only being recently ascertained that the coins were of his own manufacture. The workmanship on the coins was very good. The officers were, however, unable to get the tools and dies he used in his private mint. The prisoner is an old offender against the laws of Uncle Sam, and once before served thirty days in jail for 'bootlegging.'"

Will Carter, colored, who was born and reared in Ironton, killed another negro in St. Louis Sunday. Here is the story told by the Republic of Monday: "William Carter of No. 1320 Pine street and William Bateman of No. 2013 Walnut street, negroes employed as porters by the Pullman Car Company, fought yesterday in the general offices of the company, on the second floor of the Union Station, and Bateman was shot in the left temple. He died instantly. Carter was arrested after an attempt to escape by running through the crowded midway and out the Eighteenth street entrance into the arms of Detective Caudle of headquarters. He declares the shooting was done in self-defense. With several other negroes, Bateman and Carter started a crap game in Bateman's room yesterday morning. Carter won the money, all about $5. He says Bateman was half drunk and in a very ugly mood. He made an attempt to start a disturbance in the room, but Carter left and went toward Union Station. In front of the buffet Bateman caught him, struck him in the face and knocked him down. Carter arose and went to the Pullman Company's offices. Bateman followed. Again, Carter says, he was assaulted by Bateman, and this time with a knife. He says he feared further injury and that he drew his revolver and started to club Bateman with it. The revolver was discharged and the bullet lodged in Bateman's left temple. He died instantly. Carter fled."

Capt. Rider, who has appeared in Louisville, Ky., in fifty-nine churches of all denominations in his popular sacred illustrated entertainment of "Ben Hur," will have the pleasure of appearing in Ironton to-morrow evening, having been engaged by the ladies of the Ladies' Guild of St. Paul's Episcopal Church for only one representation of this great and popular attraction work—the proceeds to be devoted to the relief of the sufferers at Galveston, Texas. The subject is Gen. Lew Wallace's well-known story. To those who have not read the book, the discourse affords a good chance to become familiar with it. Those who are familiar with it will enjoy the delightful souvenirs evoked by the repetition of the tale. The entertainment will be illustrated with over a hundred grand colored pictures; a few of them are from photographs taken in Palestine. The majority of them, however, are sketches in colors to illustrate scenes in the romance. The costumes, architecture, and other details are as faithful to the truth of history. Capt. Rider's recital consists in the recapitulation of the story as given by Gen. Lew Wallace. He will commence with the gathering of the "Three Wise Men" in the desert; describe the birth of Christ, and then pass on to narrate the story of the "Hur" family. He will describe the misfortune which separated Ben Hur from his mother and sister, and the elaborate vengeance which he took upon his enemies. The chariot race will be particularly thrilling. The part which Ben Hur took in preparing the way to the Kingdom of Christ will be recounted and the circumstances which finally convinced the Jew that Christ was a Spiritual, not a Material Empire. The crucifixion will be portrayed and the closing scenes will be finely recapitulated. We have given the above description of this elegant entertainment in the hope that a large audience will turn out to see such an attraction, and for so laudable a cause. The price of admission is 25 and 50 cents. There is no doubt that Captain Rider is a finely educated gentleman, and a rare artist of talent.

READ HIS EDITORIAL. From the Times, Hillsville, Va. I suffered with diarrhoea for a long time and thought I was past being cured. I had spent much time and money and suffered so much misery that I had almost decided to give up all hopes of recovery and await the result, but noticing the advertisement of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and also some testimonials stating how some wonderful cures had been wrought by this remedy, I decided to try it. After taking a few doses I was entirely well of that trouble, and I wish to say further to my readers and fellow-sufferers that I am a hale and hearty man to-day and feel as well as I ever did in my life.—O.
